

Immigration

A global economy means that businesses - big and small - must go beyond national borders to succeed. Predictability in cross-border business travel, assignments, relocations and permanent moves is paramount. Berezowski Business Immigration Law provides small and mid-sized businesses, multinational companies, law firms, investors and professionals with a full complement of immigration law services.

Cross-border immigration strategies that make companies competitive, help businesses expand and launch cross-border careers are our expertise. We also recognize that immigration impacts upon the whole person and often the whole family. Berezowski Business Immigration Law helps clients meet their business objectives and families stay together. Every part of the immigration process is important to us.

In a world of business and workplace mobility, managing border laws is a necessity. At Berezowski Business Immigration Law our border expertise and experience means that our clients, their employees and families, have the knowledge-based strategies they need to manage cross-border travel. We help with the complete immigration picture.

Our approach to immigration is expeditious and personal.

We prepare, review and finalize submissions and application in days - not weeks. In many instances we are able to file an application the same day we receive the requisite information. We work within our clients' timeframe.

At Berezowski Business Immigration Law we recognize that immigration processes are information intensive. We therefore employ internet-based technology as an effective tool in simplifying immigration paperwork - saving time and expense. While our ability to obtain and relay information is central to satisfying our clients' immigration needs, technology supports - but does not replace - our personal approach to immigration.

We believe that an informed client is a good client. Our clients are invited to call or meet with us to discuss immigration strategies on an informal basis and we welcome the opportunity to host corporate workshops and lead in-house immigration seminars designed to our clients' specifications. Informed communications make our working relationships productive and we pride ourselves in our longstanding relationships and referral based business.

Our border expertise, expediency and personal approach means that human resources managers, businesses owners and managers, investors and professionals, and their families, are able to manage immigration processes and achieve their cross-border goals.
